Local Flooding In South-Central

Four-Inch Cloudburst At Friend; Bridges Submerged; Salt Creek Rises

Local flooding continued in sections of central and south central Nebraska Friday due to heavy rains throughout the week. Thursday's top downpour was a four-inch cloudburst at Friend, causing minor flooding.

The Friend deluge fell within two hours during the afternoon, sending Sucker creek out of its banks for a time. However, the flash flood waters had subsided Friday morning, leaving the ground well saturated.

Road Closed.

Two Hebron families who left their homes Wednesday still have not been able to return, although the Little Blue there is going down. A county road near Deshler was closed today after high water from the Little Blue inundated the road, according to the Thayer county sheriff.

The Little Sandy creek, also cutting through Thayer county, was reportedly dropping today.

High water from the Little Blue has closed both the south and west county roads leading out of Steele City. Motorists are getting through only by foot. Clair Darling, local businessman, said Steele City received three-fourths of an inch of rain Thursday.

Road Closed.

At Fairbury, the Little Blue river was falling "slightly" today, but water was still running over the detour on Highway 15. The road remains open to traffic. Considerable lowlands along the river in this vicinity are under water, according to E. W. Patton, Fairbury patrolman.

Downstream at Endicott the Little Blue remained out of its banks today and blocked a county road south of town.

Salt creek was back in its banks in the southern section of Lancaster county Friday after a two inch rain which fell within an hour had caused minor flooding of lowlands Thursday afternoon.

Both Sprague and Denton areas were hit by light hail which accompanied the rain.

S.O.B. Heard Again In National Capitol

... Senator Hurls Epithet At Wallace Manager

WASHINGTON — (AP) — In an angry scene, Sen. Eastland (D-Miss.) dismissed C. B. Baldwin, who was Henry Wallace's campaign manager, from the witness chair of a senate hearing today and called him an S.O.B. in the full-words version.

Baldwin had refused to answer a question whether or not he is or has been a member of the communist party, and had accused Eastland of "fighting against Negro rights."

Baldwin, former administrator of the farm security administration, also had shouted that Eastland represented "The Cotton council," an organization which Baldwin said is made up of "plantation owners."

No Physical Violence.

Despite the epithets, neither moved toward physical violence. Baldwin is a man of medium height, round-faced, balding. Eastland is a sturdy-built man of about six feet. Both are in their 40s.

The hearings were by a senate judiciary subcommittee on bills that would require the registration of communist and communist-front organizations.

Baldwin appeared as secretary-treasurer of the progressive party. He had a prepared statement which called the bills "part of the anti-communist hysteria that has been whipped up since the end of the war."

But he never got to read the statement.

Tiff Begins.

First off, the question about past or present communist party membership was put to him.

But Eastland rose from his chair and started to walk away, saying that Baldwin's prepared statement would not be accepted for the record.

Hotly protesting, Baldwin told Eastland he would gladly take an oath of allegiance.

But Eastland told him the committee was through with him.

That is when Baldwin accused Eastland of "fighting against the rights of Negroes and Eastland came back with his cussing out of Baldwin.

Boys' State Will Stage First Parade

Saturday March 20 Wind Up '49 State

The population of Cornhusker Boys' State will parade through downtown Lincoln Saturday noon, the first time in the Nebraska Legion-sponsored "State's" 9-year history.

After July, Venable predicted "smooth sailing." In August, he pointed out, the Omaha Public Power system will increase its output by 20,000 kilowatts.

The Nebraska Public Power system also is planning to increase output by 32,000 kilowatts in August and another 32,000 kilowatts in September, he said.

88 Million Network.

There also will be a 15,000 kilowatt addition from the Nebraska Public power plant at K street in Lincoln, he said.

Power from Bureau of Reclamation projects will also be available by 1953, he added.

Venable also discussed the technical aspects of the new $8 million power transmission network for the eastern part of Nebraska.

The network is a combined project of the Nebraska Public Power System, REA and Consumers. The project will be completed within three years. It calls for added sources of power to rural areas, Venable said.

About 350 miles of transmission lines will be constructed under the plan.

John E. Curtis, assistant to the general manager at the Lincoln organization, told the group that "the war is over" and "we are no longer in a position to offer too many excuses for poor service."

"We are an important part of building a great state," he added.

Other speakers were W. N. Jackson, construction superintendent; Fred Drew, engineer, Lincoln; Ray Murdock, construction clerk; Ivan O. Sunderman, engineer; G. Hermance, general construction foreman; L. L. Sherman, superintendent of transportation; Ed Taber, merchandise manager, all of Lincoln; Howard Haase, chief accountant; R. W. Staal, advertising manager, both from Columbus.

Western power representatives in Berlin pressed the Russians Friday for week-end talks to solve the Berlin rail strike. The Paris foreign ministers conference has set a Monday deadline for settlement.

The proposal came at a meeting in which the ministers of Britain, France, Russia and the United States sought to salvage something from the clutter of disagreements in their talks on Germany's future.

Yesterday Vishinsky had accepted a U.S. request that east-west trade and traffic in Berlin be ended by Monday.

Vishinsky asked his council colleagues to lay down the procedure for drafting the German treaty before they wind up this session in Paris, the French sources said.

Tucker Indicted

Rear-Engine Auto Promoter Accused Of Mail Fraud

CHICAGO — (AP) — Preston T. Tucker, promoter of a novel automobile that never got into mass production, today was indicted on charges of mail fraud, SEC violations and conspiracy. Seven associates were indicted with him.

A 31-count indictment was returned before Federal Judge John P. Barnes by a grand jury which spent 12 weeks since Feb. 12 investigating affairs of Tucker and his corporation.

Maximum possible penalties for conviction under the indictment would amount to 155 years imprisonment and $60,000 in fines for each of the eight defendants.

Charges $25 Million Spent.

The counts are 25 of mail fraud, five of violating regulations of the securities and exchange commission and one of conspiracy.

The indictment charges that a total of $28,000,000 was spent by the defendants on the promotion and building of the car. The sources of the money were sales of dealer franchises, sale of Class A stock and accessories for cars sold before delivery of the automobiles.

Judge Barnes fixed bond at $25,000 for Tucker.

The defendants are accused of taking advantage of the public's demand for cars and spreading false and fraudulent statements and representations relating to a proposed company. The car was to be a "X" and was represented to possess and combine features of advanced construction and design not heretofore contained in any mass produced automobile."

Tucker Corp Class A stock was quoted in the over-the-counter market today at 50 cents a share bid and 60 cents a share offered. This compared with a bid of 62½ cents and an offer of 75 cents yesterday. The stock originally was sold to the public at $5 a share.

We Enjoy Ill Health

We think the reader should turn to Mark Childs' column on this page. Mr. Childs discusses at some length what has become America's favorite indoor sport. He refers to the newspaper headlines and the vital statistics of unemployment as set forth in the news columns in recent days.

"If you read far enough," Mr. Childs says, "you will find that employment has also risen in May to a total of 58,694,000, WHICH WAS SLIGHTLY HIGHER THAN A YEAR AGO WHEN NO ONE WAS HAUNTED BY THE SPECTER OF DEFLATION THAT HANGS OVER WASHINGTON."

Mr. Childs goes on to point out that in June of 1943 employment spurted to the unprecedented figure of 63,479,000, but at the same time unemployment in June of last year rose nearly a half million. Why? A vast army of new labor recruits emerged from the universities, colleges and high schools to be absorbed in business and industry.

We may be chumps enough to talk ourselves into a sick bed. Why should we court economic invalidism, with the gamble that a dangerous mental attitude actually may bring on a real illness? But we are talking too much recession and depression. We are placing too much emphasis upon transitory trends, while ignoring the more important comparisons covering a longer period of time. We are misleading people, contributing to fear, inviting trouble. We unconsciously are following the communist line of gloom. And Moscow today is parading the figure of mounting unemployment, falling security prices, a gathering capitalist recession.

Mr. Childs never wrote any true words than those with which he closes his column:

"For this country to fall into a depression psychosis with 60 million people at work would be worse than nonsensical. It would be insane folly. In my opinion the census bureau should recast its figures to make them more nearly in accord with facts. There is no point in helping those who want to bring about the calamity of a depression."

Party Responsibility

Many persons accept the argument that we should have better results in the legislature if members were chosen on party tickets." Sterling McCaw writes in the Norfolk News. "That may be true but those who argue that way haven't revealed how you can get party responsibility under the direct primary system of nominations. Party respon-

ONE OF THE UNMENTIONABLES

Why is it that so much of the discussion of Missouri basin development falls short of realism? We can spill thousands of words about high dams and low dams, about the struggle against erosion, and about forestation. Who in heaven's name is "agin" any of these? We can talk about flood control to avert the heavy losses inflicted by unruly streams. Who in their right mind is "agin" trying to eliminate flood damage running into the millions of dollars annually? We speak of the lack of realism in newspaper comment because some strange timidity seems to have gagged most of the press of the Missouri basin region when it comes to the question of electricity. Is that vital objective of Missouri basin development one of America's unmentionables? Does the mere thought of vast hydro-electric plants, dotting the Missouri basin area, turning darkness into daylight, scare the living daylights out of bold, brave men, who scribble their views upon the one best hope of a vast section of the Old West?

Each man will have to supply his own answer. He alone can furnish the answer why he by-passes or ducks the only red-hot issue in the current discussion of Missouri basin development. When he speaks of a "high" dam at Garrison or Randall on the Missouri, what is the average reader to understand is involved in the current conflict between General Pick and Director Sloan of the Reclamation bureau? A "high" dam means a greater head of water and vastly more cheap electricity. A "low" dam means less head of water and less electricity. If that is so, then why not say so?

Perhaps in ivory towers where men gaze out of windows and reduce dreams to paper, they do not understand the true foundations of this boiling controversy. They are satisfied, and are elated over a sense of great public service, when they discuss at length the relative merits of various practices of soil conservation. We are certain there can be no standard formula for a river basin which starts in Montana, ends in Missouri, and en route ties 10 states of varying climate, different soil, and greatly dissimilar topography into one neat little bundle. Only a little common horse sense can establish practices fitted to the varied problems to be met in each locality of one of America's most extensive river valleys.

The Christian Science Monitor ponders upon this complicated issue west of the Mississippi. The Bureau of Reclamation, the Monitor says, has a definition for the portion of the Missouri basin where water conservation (storage and irrigation) dominates all thought. "The West begins exactly and whenever the line of 20 inches of rainfall and below curves back and forth down through the

OFF THE RECORD

By ED REED

"Oh, there you are Horton—we were just discussing you!"

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

TRADE MARK REGISTERED

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — When Washington dignitaries gathered at dinner this week to commemorate the Marshall plan, probably only one man present really knew how the Marshall plan got started — President Truman. And not even Truman knew or remembered all the details.

The birth of the Marshall plan—believe it or not—was influenced by the illness of Senator Bilbo of Mississippi. Furthermore, this plan now a great force in revitalizing Europe—was a complete accident as far as the White House was concerned.

President Truman had been scheduled to make a speech at Cleveland, Miss., in the winter of 1947 and called in Dean Acheson, then undersecretary of state, to ask if he could get him out of a jam. He explained that to please some of his wife's friends he had promised to speak in Cleveland.

What goes on under that hair is anybody's guess. Rarely has speculation been more aroused than Mr. Lewis inspires in his latest move. He is an uncompromising enemy of the Taft-Hartley labor law. Yet the dispatches say Mr. Lewis' week's layoff in the coal mines is the development needed to insure defeat of attempts to repeal the Taft-Hartley law. Mr. Lewis says the accumulated stockpiles of coal in this country have reached the point where instability has been added to unemployment in the mines. The answer is a seven-day holiday for his miners, at no pay.

So that man is back with something new in the way of a shenanigan. What the eye is able to see is clear enough; what the eye cannot see piques popular curiosity. The friends of the Taft-Hartley labor law are happy. One of its most vocal critics has given it a reprieve. Labor which has been demanding new legislation has no basis for smiles. They have run into the ditch. The chances are if the AFL's Bill Green and CIO's Phil Murray could speak their mind about this new turn of events, Mr. Lewis' ears would burn with something less than praise.

PEARSON says that as acting secretary of state, Dean Acheson (above) launched a new American foreign policy, later known as the "Marshall plan," in a major address which Acheson made in a Mississippi town in 1947. Almost unnoticed in the American press, Acheson's speech was played up in the British papers, with the result that it finally received attention here.

that the folks in Mississippi had made elaborate preparations, and that this was to be the biggest event in the town's history.

But, he said, he couldn't go. Senator Bilbo was back in the state, ill, after the senate's refusal to seat him, and it would be political suicide, Truman felt, if he set foot inside the state at that time. He had written his Mississippi friends, he said, asking if they would accept a cabinet member instead, and they replied that they were greatly interested in foreign affairs and the only man they would take as a substitute was Acting Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

Truman immediately agreed and Acheson's proposed committee was appointed.

And that was pretty much how the Marshall plan really got started.

Keeping the record straight—the first congressman to attack airplane contracts was Clarence Brown of Ohio. What the public doesn't know is that Congressman Brown is a close friend and distant relative of ex-Congressman Harold Mosher of Ohio, who is the lobbyist for the Glenn Martin company which manufactures navy planes but can't get much business from the air forces... Utah's Governor J. Bracken Lee, checking a report that his ancestors came over on the Mayflower, found that his supposed Pilgrim forebear was Richard Clarke—who died a bachelor... Secretary Acheson and Foreign Minister Bevin haven't been getting along too well at Paris. Bevin thinks Acheson is hogging the spotlight, got irritated when Acheson refused to go along with Bevin's plan for secret diplomacy.

So, having in mind Henry Wallace's famous speech on Russia which was officially cleared with the White House—but which Truman himself didn't read, Acheson took great pains to have his speech carefully examined. He asked that it be read by the army-navy, by economic adviser Dr. Edwin Nourse, and by the commerce department, as well as by Truman. His strategy was to have so many cabinet experts read it that it would not be sent to Senators Tom Connally and Arthur Vandenberg whom he suspected might pour on the cold water.

The purifiers of the speech later held a meeting. Since there was nothing in the speech about bases, the army-navy had no objection. Dr. Nourse suggested a few changes of figures, which were accepted. Secretary of Commerce Harriman, who had been talking to Acheson privately, was enthusiastic, while Truman was delighted that Acheson was getting him out of his Mississippi speaking jam.

After all this preparation, however, the speech got only two or three paragraphs buried inside the newspapers. Few people in the U.S. realized that Acheson had launched one of the most important policies since the U.N. or the Monroe Doctrine.

The British press, however, played up the story big. And as a result Scotty Reston of the New York Times called on Acheson to ask whether this was a new American foreign policy.

FREE GOVERNMENT

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Our European recovery program has been truly humanitarian. It operated under the Economic Co-operation administration established by congress, some 10 months after Secretary Marshall announced the purpose at Harvard University. He said the role of this country should consist of friendly aid in drafting a European program, to which the latter gave support. The program was European and duly adopted by the participating nations. The "friendly aid" of which Secretary Marshall spoke was extended to the ECA nations. In plain English, American dollars were translated into European recovery. Just what are the free governments that devices set up by the people to manage their own affairs? Every day, in every way, we find new reasons for being proud of the United States.

SHETS OF PAPER

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Answering your editorial note on the social security article of June 8—you asked if I would have had all of the money collected paid out. No, but if it had been it would have gone for the purpose for which it was collected. I don't favor making a grab-bag of anything, but a slight raise in grants to the aged would have gone to those for whom it was collected and would have helped materially many who have paid in for social security in their declining years instead of to those who never paid in one thin dime—those who have had a good income from other sources. You could name plenty of them. You say that the $3 billion is in government bonds; mere sheets of paper with no value whatsoever unless more money is collected to take them up and from what sources no one knows, probably from the same sources that the $3 billions were collected, shorting the cash fund once more with no increased grants. As an example of what government bonds are: I may write a number of checks on my bank but they aren't worth anything unless I put the cash in the bank to cover them. So there isn't one thin dime in the $3 billions of bond IOUs to the social security fund. I guess I have answered your editorial queries.

You may say that the government is always good for obligations but that don't make it so.

Belvidere Concentrates On Tornado Cleanup Work

Friday, June 10, 1949

THE LINCOLN STAR 5

Telephones, Electricity Are Restored

Injured Still Hospitalized

BELVIDERE, Neb. — (AP) — Cleanup operations following Wednesday night's death dealing tornado moved forward Friday as volunteers sought to have the rubble carted away by the week's end.

"We're coming along pretty good," said Marshal Bill Fry, who is directing cleanup operations. "But," he added, "it will take several days to complete the job."

Funeral services, meanwhile, were being arranged for the three victims of the storm. All were in the Pierce cafe-dance hall building when the twister struck.

The dead were Orville Bell, Jr., 12, Belvidere; Dwayne Kincaid,

AMONG THE 10 BUILDINGS WRECKED in the Belvidere, Neb., tornado Wednesday was the John Culp garage, pictured above. The storm knocked out both the front and back end of the garage. (Star Photo Service by Day Studio, Hebron.)

again and telephone service has been restored.

Bulldozer Used.

The marshal said it was hoped to have at least part of the street lights on by nightfall. "They will burn all night tonight," Fry added.

Volunteers still were coming from adjoining towns today to help in the vast cleanup job. A large truck and bulldozer were working in the business district, which was half destroyed by the twister.

In all, about 10 buildings were damaged, Fry said. However, it appeared that the Culp garage (three buildings) and the restaurant buildings were the only ones destroyed almost completely.

The restaurant building, which housed the cafe, the dance hall and the living quarters of the Bell and Patty families, was completely gone.

Fry said electric service had been restored to all homes in the village of 325 "except two or three." Water was being pumped

—Nebraska Growers— Livestock's Top Threat Washington

Declares Coffee; Brannan Program Rapped At Meet

ALLIANCE, Neb. — (AP) — The greatest threat to the future of the livestock industry is political in nature and emanates from Washington, the Nebraska Stock Growers association was told today.

"Growing federal expenditures are leading us down to the road to national socialism," said Harry B. Coffee of Omaha, president of the Union Stock Yards company, as he lashed out at the Brannan farm program in an address prepared for the stockmen's annual convention.

The Brannan proposal would provide consumers with cheap food and at the same time assure farmers and ranchers high prices for their products—by the simple expedient of having the taxpayers, or the federal treasury, pay whatever is necessary to make everybody happy," Coffee said.

Hits Program Cost.
The Ormanian said "it is impossible to make even a reasonable guess as to how many billions of dollars this utopian plan would cost the taxpayers of this country. This proposed legislation delegates to the secretary of agriculture practically complete control over all of the farms and ranches."

Striking again at government proposed programs, Coffee said "in addition to the Brannan program, there are a number of other similar proposals pending in congress which would cost the taxpayers billions of dollars and further weaken the financial stability of the government."

He listed them as "socialized medicine," government housing, federal aid to education, veterans' bonus, and extension of social security.

Economical Daily Gain.
"Has the beef cattle breeder gone too far in his efforts to produce a small bodied, compact fine-boned animal, thereby sacrificing that all important requisite to the cattle feeder, namely, the animal's ability to produce a substantial economical daily gain?"

In asking that question of the delegates, Paul J. Hackett, executive vice president of Agricultural Lands, Inc., said for several years "I have been very much concerned about the daily gain we have been able to get on our cattle in the feed lot."

It is now the exception rather than the rule to average two pounds per head per day," he declared. "A few years ago I was able to average consistently at least two and one-half pounds daily on yearlings and from two to two and one-third pounds daily on calves."

Face Responsibility.
"We, who are engaged in the production and feeding of livestock, face a tremendous responsibility, a responsibility not only for our own welfare but for the welfare of America. A well fed nation, especially one with an adequate meat diet, is a strong nation," he said.

Thursday the opening session of the convention heard its president, Dr. C. R. Watson of Mitchell, and Val Peterson.

The fight for good roads in Nebraska is not over, Gov. Peterson said.

"Opponents of the highway program plan to fight for repeal of higher registration fees and the one cent gas tax increase in the 1950 election," he charged in an address to the Nebraska Stock Growers association.

The governor vigorously attacked opponents of the highway program. He said that these opponents are not located within the state.

"These people made false statements about the amount of money that is available for roads; audits showed there wasn't any," he added.

With the new gasoline tax now being collected Nebraska will put 315 million dollars into highway building and repair within two years, to be matched with a like amount of federal funds, the chief executive said.

Do Own Job.

Governor Peterson also told the stockmen that it is up to them to keep taxes down. "Do your own job and don't ask the state or federal government for aid. Everytime you do that it costs you money in more taxes."

Dr. Watson opened the convention with an attack on the Ormanian agricultural program, declaring "a mistake was made" when Brannan did not consult with farm and livestock organizations

when the plan was lined up.

In his annual report, Dr. Watson referred to association activity, saying that "as we enter upon our 81st year, we are proud of our achievements, our growing membership, our Cow Belles organization, our junior stockgrowers organization, and the general increasing interest in our group."

The business sessions got under way with the election of several persons to the advisory board and to the association's executive council. Advisory board members include:

District 1—Edward Herman, Lakeside.

A. Schmitt, Harrison; J. W. Sand-

Farmer Strangles Self With Twigs

RED CREEK, N. Y.—(AP)—A farmer pinned by an overturned tractor strangled himself with twigs to end his agony, a coroner's physician reported.

James Jenkins, 52, was caught yesterday beneath the machine when it tipped over backward while hauling a mower up a steep hill. The tractor seat crushed his abdomen.

Dr. Charles Single said Jenkins apparently grasped twigs from a nearby bush, placed them around his throat and strangled himself.

Brannan Plan Is Attacked

By Leaders Of GOP In House And Senate

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Brannan farm plan came under heavy republican attack today...

As the administration prepared for the opening of its campaign to sell Secretary of Agriculture Brannan's program to the midwest, its author drew sharp fire from GOP lawmakers in both house and senate.

And a fresh blast was due tonight from a republican senate leader speaking in Nebraska.

Speaks At Alliance.

The Aiken law was expected to get strong support from Sen. Wherry (R-Neb.) in his nationally-broadcast (MBS)—9:15 p. m. CST) speech from Alliance, Neb., to a state stock growers association.

(The Aiken law was expected to get strong support from Sen. Wherry (R-Neb.) in his nationally-broadcast (MBS)—9:15 p. m. CST) speech from Alliance, Neb., to a state stock growers association.

Wherry already has called Brannan's proposal a "socialistic" plan calling for controls he thinks the farmers won't want.

The republican charges levelled at Brannan from both sides of the capitol yesterday centered on his handling of a grain loan program under a new Commodity Credit Corporation bill.

Republicans Open Fire.

Rep. August Andresen (R-Minn) told the house Brannan was pulling some political maneuvering in a buildup for a democratic meeting at Des Moines, Ia., next week.

The meeting was called to boom the plan under which Brannan would pay government subsidies to farmers while letting perishable crops seek their own level on the market.

In a speech that largely paralleled Andresen's Sen. William (R-Del) told the senate that Brannan had been maneuvering to bring a sharp rise in midwest grain prices.

Brannan, talking to newsmen, retorted: "Those who sought to provide price support for farmers will not be fooled by the charge that we have made these enemies of effective farm programs."

He said the GOP criticism of his program was mainly an effort to "whitewash" the republican-controlled 80th congress.

$3,000,000 Road Work By Sept. 1

Due To Gas Tax Says Klietsch

CURTIS, Neb. — (AP) — New revenue from the recently enacted one-cent gasoline tax increase will permit the state highway department to get about $3,000,000 of work under way by Sept. 1, according to State Engineer F. H. Klietsch.

Speaking before the annual meeting of the Highline Highway association here last night, Klietsch said the tax hike will produce about $2,000,000 yet this year in new revenue for road construction.

This year—1949—stands to be the lowest so far as dollar value of construction work obligated is concerned, that the highway department has experienced in many years, Klietsch explained.

Cities Blitzed Expense.

He pointed to the $13,000,000 worth of construction started last year, and cited the heavy expense of last winter's blizzards to the highway department.

But due to favorable action of the legislature, Klietsch declared "we can look ahead with considerable hope."

Beginning in 1950, he said, the department's income from state sources would amount to $15,200,000 a year.

The portion of that going for construction—about $7,700,000, can be matched with federal funds.

Klietsch said Nebraska's accumulated highway need amounts to $257,000,000.

"It is, of course, a financial impossibility for the state to accomplish all of its needs . . . within a short period," he asserted. "In Nebraska today we are using more motor vehicles than ever before. They are hauling heavier loads and traveling more miles . . .

To provide state highway facilities, to care for the existing needs now and for needs accruing in the future, will require continuous effort on a large scale for many years to come," the state engineer declared.

Bryan Hospital Is Willed $88,000 By Ashland Woman

...Gift To Be Used To Build Nurses Home

Miss Carrie Kleiser, Ashland, has bequeathed about $88,000 to Bryan Memorial hospital, Supt. E. C. McDade announced Thursday night. Miss Kleiser died a year ago.

The announcement was made at the hospital's twenty-third anniversary banquet at Trinity Methodist church.

According to the will, the fund must be spent for the construction of a nurses' home. Superintendent McDade said. He added that 400 acres of the estate near Ashland sold Thursday for $57,800. The remainder (about $30,000) is in bonds.

It was the largest gift to be made to the hospital by anyone individual, McDade reported.

Next Three Weeks Critical Season On State Streams

Most of the disastrous floods in Nebraska have been between the last of May and July 10. Now with Nebraska soil saturated virtually all over the state a danger period is coming up.

The next three or four weeks thus will be the most critical of the season on Nebraska streams, U. S. Geological Survey Engineer D. D. Lewis said today.

He pointed out that the Republican river flood which took more than 100 lives in 1935 followed a heavy rain on May 31.

The Cambridge flood which took 13 lives two years ago followed a heavy rain on June 21.

The Elkhorn flood in 1944 was in June.

So far in the current rainy spell, the heavy downpours have been localized, so there has been no major trouble.

But a heavy rain now over an entire watershed such as that which occurred June 21, 1947, after several days of unsettled weather, could result in a bad flood, Lewis stated.

He said the Nemaha river last week was the highest since the gauge was established in 1943. Residents said it was the highest in 20 years.

Value Land Sought

For Right-Of-Way By Road Bureau Reduced

Cuming county District court jury at West Point reduced the award set by appraisers for six acres of land which the state sought for highway purposes by $1,776, the department of roads and irrigation was notified Friday.

The land needed was at the junction of highways Nos. 9 and 16 and will cut off 25 acres from the main body of the land which is owned by Linda Rober. Appraisers estimated the value of the land taken and decreased value to the farm as a whole at $7,300.

The state department appealed to the court from the appraiser's valuation which they believed was too high. The jury agreed and allowed but $5,524.

State Senator George C. Weborg, one of the witnesses, testified that should pay $13,236 for the six acres of land which the state sought for highway purposes by $1,776, the department of roads and irrigation was notified Friday.

The land needed was at the junction of highways Nos. 9 and 16 and will cut off 25 acres from the main body of the land which is owned by Linda Rober. Appraisers estimated the value of the land taken and decreased value to the farm as a whole at $7,300.

The state department appealed to the court from the appraiser's valuation which they believed was too high. The jury agreed and allowed but $5,524.

John Lewis decided there was too much coal above ground and rather than put it back he called a holiday.

In his next contract there will be a provision that when there is too much coal above ground it shall be shoveled back . . . at time and a half.

And he can thank me for the idea . . . at a royalty of 1 cent per shovel.

Anyway, the miners will have a whole week off at no pay starting Monday . . . This should bring them back both refreshed and resentful.

There is a "willing and able" clause in the mine contract . . . a miner may know when he is able, but only John can tell him when he is willing.

Unfortunately, this sometimes costs the miner a week's wages . . . but fortunately John's salary continues uninterrupted.

"Government Must Protect Little People" ... Peterson Tells Club

"No serious student of government . . . would suggest that government need not regulate business in the interest of the general public, to protect the weak and unorganized against the strong and predatory," Gov. Val Peterson declared Thursday.

Governor Peterson spoke on the role of government in modern society at a meeting of the Optimist club at the Cornhusker hotel.

"Such great men as Charles Evans Hughes, Theodore Roosevelt, Elihu Root and William Howard Taft accepted this as a proper responsibility of government," he added.

Regulation Not New.

"We need to know the meaning of free enterprise; to what degree it is possible in a modern society, whether it means the same thing to small businessmen and farmers of America and to the monopolists, who, while paying lip service, grow rich by doing everything to eliminate it."

Many Flying Moths In Area

The Cecropia—one of Nebraska's largest night-flying moths—is appearing in the greatest numbers in state history this spring.

According to Prof. Orlando S. Bare of the University of Nebraska entomology department, who has been called by Lincoln residents for identification of the insect, the moths are "more numerous this year than ever before."

The moth, native to Nebraska, has a wingspan varying from four to six inches. Its wings range from soft brown to reddish-grey in color, and have several crescent-shaped and multi-colored spots. The thimble-sized body is rust red with white bands.

Fly At Night.

Recently, M. N. Hereth, a farmer living near Hickman, brought one to A. E. Anderson, federal crop statistician, for identification. Four have been caught in the Crete vicinity.

Most people do not observe the moths because they fly at night, Prof. Bare explained. However, the flying moth, an adult, is not dangerous to vegetation. It is when the moth is in the larval, or large caterpillar stage, that it feeds on the leaves of forest and fruit trees. But the moth isn't in large enough numbers to do any considerable damage, he added.

He explained that the past year's weather may have been ideal for the moth's increased development.

Melrose Residents Want Street Light

"Window peekers and snoopers" have caused 13 residents in the vicinity of Thirty-fourth and Melrose avenue to ask the city council for a street light at that intersection.

Russell E. Oquist, 3340 Melrose avenue, in a letter accompanying the 13-signature petition filed

Only the brave
BY PAUL EVAN LEHMAN

Chapter 11.
He discovered the trap too late to avoid it. One glimpse he had of a strip of blue sky beyond the opening, then came the freezing realization that the trail dropped away to nothingness.

Red squealed in terror and squatted in a desperate effort to stop. His hoofs plowed furrows in the hard ground as his momentum carried him on. With a frightened squeal he went over the edge, and Jeff kicked free of his stirrups and flung himself backwards.

The rock his fingers closed on came loose and he fell, clawing at the hard smooth stone. He did not look down, but he had had a glimpse of that awful depth as they went over and knew that the drop was at least a thousand feet.

He brought up so unexpectedly that he fell to his hands and knees. He had landed on a ledge so narrow that even now his left foot hung over its edge. There was a niche to his right and he threw himself into it and pressed against the hard rock until it hurt. The cold sweat broke out, and he huddled there rigidly without daring to move.

The reason one of those bullets hadn't hit him came to him as clearly as though it were in printed words for him to read. It wasn't poor shooting; it was exceptionally good shooting. They had driven him into the trap much as a wild horse is driven into a blind corral, forcing him on with their rifles, preventing his turning to right or left, careful not to mark him with a bullet. Very careful! A bullet hole would have been evidence of murder; a mangled body at the bottom of a thousand-foot cliff could only be the result of an accident.

He heard voices and movement above him. They seemed very close.

"See anything?"
"Naw. Yeah! Yeah! Down there through the trees. Hoss, ain't it?"
"Yeah. Can't see Tyler, but he must be somewhere around there—what's left of him?"
"Thought I saw him jump just as he went over."

"He did jump; but it was too late. He went over, all right. Too bad, ain't it?" There was mockery in the voice.

"Yeah. Awful bad. You know, there oughta be a sign here at the jumpin'-off place to warn all snoopers like him."

They laughed callously and Jeff heard the crunch of their boots as they moved away from the edge of the cliff.

On his hands and knees he crawled out on the ledge, and now he saw that the edge over which he had fallen was not more than ten feet above his head when he stood erect. Ten feet, but it might just as well have been as many miles, for the rock face was eroded as smooth as glass. There was but one way out and that was by rope. And that meant somebody interested enough in his welfare to lower that rope and then drag him over the edge.

He cupped his hands and shouted more in desperation than in any hope of hearing a reply. Then he got up so suddenly that he nearly lost his balance and fell off the ledge. From the distance he came a faint answer.

He called again at the top of his lungs, and now he distinctly heard the carrying cry, "Jeff!" The pitch and timbre of that voice thrilled him to the toes.

"Connie! It couldn't be Connie. He was going batty. Once more he shouted.

Presently he heard the hoofs of her pony above him, then the thud of her booted feet as she hit the hard ground. He saw her hand against the sky as she looked fearfully down at him.

He felt like singing. Instead, he asked as calmly as he could, "Got a rope on your saddle?"

"Yes! Oh, Jeff, be careful! It's—"

"I'm all right, Connie. Listen. Tie half a dozen knots in one end and about two feet apart. Tie the other end to the horn and be sure the saddle's cinched on tight. Then let the knotted end down to me."

He heard her run back to her pony. There were a few minutes

Cartoonist McCutcheon Dead At 79

...After Long Illness

CHICAGO — (INS) — John T. McCutcheon, 79, retired author, journalist, foreign correspondent and political cartoonist, died early today at his suburban Lake Forest home after a lengthy illness.

He began his political cartooning, which won him a 1931 Pulitzer prize, during the 1896 campaign. One of his most famous cartoons was "Injun Summer."

An 1889 graduate of Purdue university, McCutcheon worked for the Chicago Record from 1889 to 1901, for the Chicago Record-Herald from 1901 to 1903, and for the Chicago Tribune from 1903 until his retirement in 1946.

During a round-the-world trip in 1898 McCutcheon became a foreign correspondent when he covered the battle of Manila bay during the Spanish-American war. He later reported the punitive Mexican campaign. Later he was in Belgium, France and the Balkans during World War I.

He is survived by his widow, Evelyn, and son, John T., Jr., Shaw and Barr McCutcheon.

of silence while she worked; then she reappeared at the edge of the cliff and the rope came slithering down. He put his foot on the end.

"Take up the slack with your hands, then lead your pony away from the edge until I stop you." She obeyed in silence and halted the pony at his call. He put his weight on the rope, raised himself from the ledge, took another handhold and a deep breath and started to climb. Short as was the distance, it seemed an eternity before he pulled himself over the edge and lay for a moment sweating it out. She ran to him and grasped his arm and tried frantically to drag him farther away. He panted that he was all right and staggered to his feet.

Her nerve broke then. "Oh, Jeff, I've been worried sick! I followed you and then lost you and then I heard shooting, and—"

Sobbing hysterically, she threw herself into his arms, her hands clutching at his coat, her head buried against his breast. Jeff tenderly gathered her close and patted her shoulder, while his shining face was turned to the stars. He was thanking God, not for his miraculous escape, but for the memory of this moment that he could carry with him through the years.

COURT ORDERS DAWES TRUST BE TERMINATED

Termination of the Dawes trust and immediate conveyance of its property—including four valuable downtown lots—to the three Dawes children, was ordered by District Judge Harry P. Ankeny Thursday afternoon.

The three beneficiaries, Carolyn Dawes Ericson, Dana McCutcheon Dawes and Virginia Dawes Cragg, are children of Gen. Charles G. Dawes and his wife Mrs. Caro C. B. Dawes. Gen. Dawes created the trust in 1902.

Gen. Dawes, now 83, was the only witness to testify at the hearing Thursday morning. It was his wish that the trust be terminated and the property given direct to the children. He and Mrs. Dawes previously this year had conveyed their life interest in the trust's income to their two daughters and one son.

The trust's real estate was made up of lots now occupied by the National Bank of Commerce, Walgreen drug store, the Ben Simon and Sons building and the Central Electric and Gas company office.

Plains States Co-Operating In Grass Seeding

Farmers in the northern Great Plains region have been seeding more than a million acres to grass each year in compliance with soil conservation practices despite a general trend since World War II to plow up grasslands.

Co-operating States.

Nebraska, Kansas, the Dakotas, Montana and Wyoming are among the states which have co-operated in grass seeding, according to reports made at the final session of the semi-annual staff conference of the state soil conservation group.

It was pointed out that there are signs already that reductions in crop acreages are due soon, and that much of the land that was plowed out in late years can be cultivated successfully only in years when both weather and prices are favorable.

About two-thirds of the land the district co-operators seed to grass is in a long-term rotation to add organic matter to the soil. This grass is usually seeded with a legume, used for hay or pasture for a few years, then plowed and cultivated again. The amount of cropland has been seeded down.

The rest of the grass seeding is on land which the land capability survey made by the Soil Conservation Service is best suited for cropping. This land is used permanently for pasture and hay production.

Information available about the number of farmers who are practicing grass seeding, but they know of numerous farmers who have not yet planted in rows. These plots are virtually all intercropped with grasses such as crested, intermediate and tall wheatgrass, and bromegrass. The number of native grasses, such as sand lovegrass and the rye grasses, are reported to be increasing, however, but seed supplies of other native grasses are not increasing so far as is known.

Man Killed As Tractor Overturns

SCOTTSBLUFF—(AP) — Floyd Erwin Rose, 57, who farmed seven miles northwest of Scottsbluff, was killed Wednesday afternoon when a three-wheeled tractor which he was riding overturned on him as he was going up a ditch bank.

County Attorney Chauncey Sheldon said that Rose apparently died instantly. He received a broken neck, crushed chest, and possible internal injuries.

Rose was born March 20, 1892, at Springfield, Mo. Surviving are his widow, a son, and a daughter, his mother, who lives at Springfield, and eight brothers and sisters in Missouri.

Taking A Second Look

A SUPERFICIAL GLANCE AT the city and its activity might have given the impression that the day was extremely quiet—but a second glance brought to light various items of interest that we now shall pass on to our reading public.

THE WEEK-END IS packed with weddings—which doesn't come as any particular surprise—but there also are prenatal dinners—and out of town wedding guests arriving.

This evening, for instance, Mr. and Mrs. E. John Moyle are presiding at dinner in prenatal courtesy to their daughter, Miss Mary Ann Moyle, and her fiance, Richard L. Johnson, whose marriage will take place Saturday evening at the First-Plymouth Congregational church.

The guest list will include only the members of the families and the bridal party. Out of town guests at the affair will be Mr. and Mrs. James G. Muir and their daughter, Novia, of Rockford, Mich., and Mr. and Mrs. William Bender of Marshalltown, Ia.

THEN WE LEARNED OF a luncheon today for an out of town guest—Mrs. Dwight Perkins entertained a group of guests at the University club complimenting Mrs. Jack Simmons of Coffeyville, Kas., who, with her three children, Linda, Jimmy and Barbara, is guest at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Warren R. Boyd.

ALSO A GUEST AT Mrs. Perkins' luncheon was Mrs. K. J. Plants of New York City, the former Marjorie Souders of Auburn—Mrs. Plants, who is visiting her family in Auburn, arrived in Lincoln this morning for a brief visit.

IN OUR "HOME-FROM-SCHOOL" department today we have Miss Janice Weil who re-

On Monday ground breaking ceremonies were held for Camp Catron, the new Girl Scout camp. Participating in the activities were Henry Catron, donor of the site, shown breaking the ground in the picture above; Loyal Shannon and Arthur Sweet, both of the Nebraska City contact committee; Mrs. Al Lew, commissioner of the Lincoln Girl Scout council; Mrs. E. A. Fieriche, chairman of the camp committee, and Mrs. C. L. Clark, camp committee member.

Building plans for the camp are progressing rapidly and the camp will be ready for the opening date, July 17.

Formal dedication ceremonies will be held later in the summer.

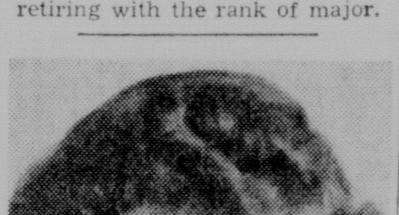

MRS. GLENN CORYELL

Florida Girl Bride Of Glenn Coryell

The chancel of St. Peter's church, Episcopal, in St. Petersburg, Fla., was arranged with white gladioli, white asters, and tall lighted candles for the marriage of Miss Effie Hardee Ingalls, daughter of Mrs. Justus Roberts Ingalls of Washington, D. C., and St. Petersburg, and the late Mr. Ingalls, to Glenn Coryell, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Coryell, which took place on Saturday, June 4. The ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. Evan A. Edwards, rector of St. Peter's church.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, former Governor Cary A. Hardee of Live Oak, Fla., wore a gown of dotted mousseine de soie. Her long veil of imported English illusion fell from a tiara of pearls. She carried a bouquet of white roses centered with white orchids and showered with lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Samuel T. Johnson as the matron of honor, in Nile green, and the bridesmaids, Mrs. Charles Partridge and Miss Sally Lenz, in yellow, wore frocks of mousseine de soie fashioned in replica to the Church Ceremony

In the presence of the members of the families, and a small group of friends, the marriage of Miss Marilyn Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Moore, to Howard B. Dolen, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard B. Dolen, was solemnized Thursday evening, June 2, at the First Christian church. Arrangements of white peonies and greenery, and lighted cathedral candles, decorated the chancel, and the lines of the 8 o'clock service were read by the Rev. Lowell C. Bryant.

The wedding music was played by James Johnston, organist, who also accompanied Mrs. James Johnston who sang "Ave Maria," preceding the ceremony.

The matron of honor and bride's only attendant was Mrs. Winona Stephenson of Lincoln, who was frosted in sea green organdy over taffeta. A ruffle of the organdy, appliqued in white, outlined the low, rounded neckline of the fitted bodice, and the applique motif was repeated on the full skirt which was sashed with grosgrain ribbon in the canary yellow shade. She wore a halo of matching yellow tulles in her hair, and carried a bouquet of garden flowers.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride appeared in a colonial gown of orchid marquise. Ruffles of matching orchid lace framed the sheer yoke in the drop-shoulder mode, and long sleeves completed the basqued bodice. The full hooped skirt was edged with alternating rows of lace and marquise ruffles, and she wore a wide-brimmed hat of orchid hairbraid trimmed with lace, with sprays of lilies-of-the-valley encircling

MISS RITA MULVEY

Announcement is made of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Rita Eileen Mulvey of Omaha, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mulvey of Lincoln, to Sylvester L. Gaves, son of Ray B. Gaves of Owatonna, Minn., and the late Mrs. Gaves.

The wedding will take place at St. Mary's cathedral on Saturday, July 2.

Miss Mulvey attended the University of Nebraska where she was pledged to Sigma Kappa sorority. Mr. Gaves attended St. Mary's college, Winona, Minn., and now is a senior at Creighton university college of law where he also took his pre-law work. He is a member of Delta Theta Phi fraternity.

Instructions given by the jury by a Lancaster County District court were found prejudicial, although evidence was sufficient to sustain the verdict," the state Supreme court held Friday in reversing the judgment given the Union Air Service against Roy A. Sankey.

The case was remanded to the lower court for new trial.

Thomas Umberger, Carl H. Nelson and Masamitsu Ayabe are owners of the air service and a plane operated by a licensed pilot which was in a collision with a plane owned and operated by Sankey. The accident occurred in October, 1946, while the planes were landing.

The court held that the judge's instructions overlooked the fact that the issue of contributory negligence was removed from consideration by the jury.

The court reversed and remanded for further consideration the case of Clyde C. McKain against the Platte Valley Public Power district heard in Lincoln county. It was a suit to recover damages from water escaping from reservoirs and irrigation canals.

The court affirmed the denial of a writ of mandamus to compel the Sherman county supervisors to repair a Loup river bridge. It was brought by Lee Heil. He contended repairs could be made for $4,000 and that the bridge was used as a mail route.

The commissioners contend that two new bridges would be built, that they would cost over $26,000 and that the county had no funds for building and were levying the legal limit.

The court affirmed the verdict of Cedar county District court which granted a writ of replevin to the Green Finance Co. to recover an automobile from Arnold Becker, which he had purchased and later found was mortgaged.

Lovenguth Blanks Bruins, 6-0

A'S HURLER ALLOWS ONLY FIVE HITS, WHIFFS 11, IN VICTORY

DES MOINES—(AP)—Lynn Lovenguth, Lincoln's 165-pound freshman pitcher from Camden, N. Y., Thursday night set a Western league high in strikeouts this season by whiffing 11 as the A's throttled Des Moines, 6-0.

Lovenguth allowed only five hits in becoming the first pitcher to shut out Des Moines this season.

His teammates shelled Vern for 10 hits as the Athletics took their second straight over the Bruins. The teams conclude their series tonight as the A's move on to Sioux City for three games.

The big inning for the Athletics was the sixth. Lou Limmer and

Joe Aliperto singled, and Limmer scoored on Tom Kirk's long fly.

George Moskovich singled,

Aliperto to

third, and Walt Novick's double brought

Aliperto home.

Moskovich scored when

Leon Brinkop's throw to the plate hit

Moskovich and bounded away.

Novick was thrown out at the plate when Lynn Lovenguth

he tried to come all the way home while Catcher Dick Aylward was chasing the ball.

The Athletics got two more in the seventh when Dolph Regelsky dropped a pop fly for a two-base error, putting Shortstop Bobby

Stewart on base. Singles by

Ed Boehm and Limmer accounted for the two runs.

The first run came in the third inning when Lovenguth lived on an error, and was sent home by Boehm's triple.

Boehm, Limmer, Aliperto and Novick each collected two hits for Lincoln.

Back in second place again, the Sioux City Soos tonight will try to trip Pueblo's Western league lead to a single game when the teams wind up their current series.

SOOS WIN.

The Soos edged the Dodgers,

7-6, in 10 innings Thursday night to replace Des Moines as runner-up.

Ernie Yelen lined a hit between left and center in the 10th with two away to score Frank McArthur with the Soos' winning run.

KENNEDY'S 69 IS LOW IN FIRST ROUND PLAY.

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN.

CHICAGO — (AP) — The National Open golf championship looks like a Tom, Dick and Harry tournament after the first round with Les Kennedy, one of the lesser-known pros, pacing the field and a two-under par 69.

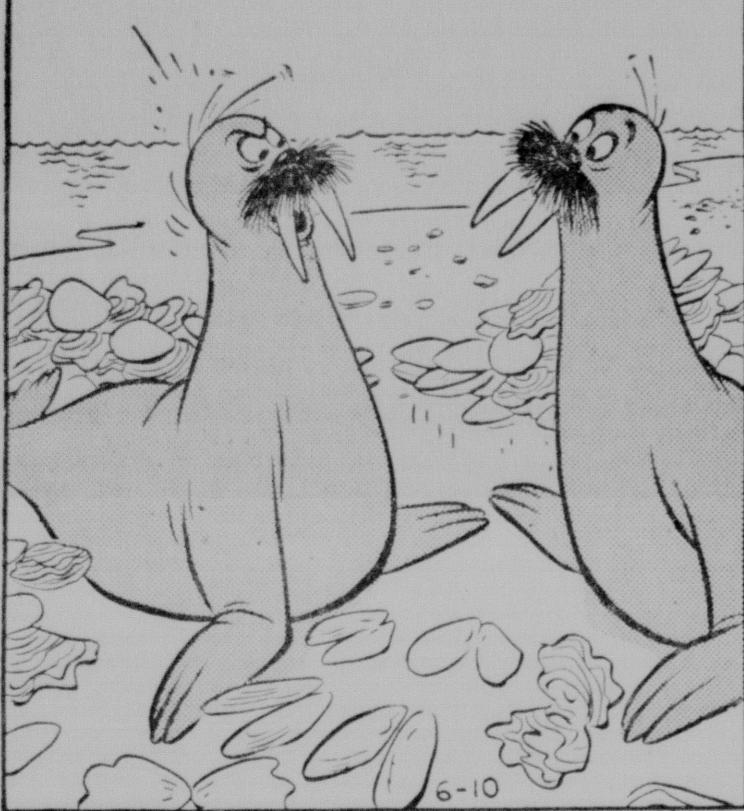

Kennedy, 31-year-old Pottawattamie, Ia., shooter, competing in his first Open, posted his top ranking score after touring the 49th Open tourney.

Only five players broke par Thursday in a field of 162 starters in the 49th Open tourney. Seven others matched par over the nearly 7,000 yards of hills

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
